

FIRST PUBLIC POW WOW OF THE MOJAVE INDIANS

The Mojave Indian pow-wow, the sacred ceremony of the tribe of red-men who live at Needles, which is observed with unflinching regularity each year, and which has heretofore been a semi-secret affair, was this year, for the first time in the history of the tribe made a public one, the chiefs even inviting the members of the various other tribes and also extending an invitation to the white people to witness the mysterious event which took place near Needles last week, says the Clark County Review. But one restriction was placed upon the guests; that no cameras be brought to the pow-wow or any pictures attempted whatever, in former years those who have attempted to secretly photograph the ceremony have generally come to grief, usually the camera being burned or broken by the Indians.

The following account of the pow-wow is taken from the Needles Nugget, and is of special interest to the many former residents of that city now residing here:

Last Sunday's Indian pow-wow was staged according to program. The early hours of the morning were taken up in various rites of the ceremonies, and at 10:30 promptly, with a goodly crowd of white people present, the Mojave Indian band played America, while white and Indian alike, doffed their head coverings. During the music the stars and stripes were slowly hoisted in the breeze from poles erected at each end of the ramada, which they had built for the special services of the pow-wow. Beneath the American flag there was suspended the feather fan of the Indians which was raised at the same time. With the last strains of the music, there followed a song-talk by the Indians punctuated with a few shots from their six-shooters. In the hands of Mojaves who find to a command given in English.

To the white people, however, there was conveyed the impression that the pow-wow was to commemorate the Indian boys who had given their lives to the great father in Washington, more particularly those who had sacrificed their lives in the government. It is perhaps the first opportunity ever offered the white people to be present at a pow-wow at the invitation of the Indians and it might teach us that the people of the world are getting a little nearer to the common brotherhood of man, a subject upon which there has been much dilatory in these days of prophecy.

In the afternoon the story of the feather fan and the couriers was illustrated and amplified by eight Indian boys in original dress. There were other ceremonies upon which the white people looked with curious eyes and little understanding as the religious rites of the Mojave is little known to the ordinary citizen. Suffice it that they are sincere and that there are many little things in their religious proceedings that might well be inculcated into the too careless brand of the white folk's creed. The weird songs and the chanting, the rattles of the gourds and the beating of tom-toms, make up the description.

of the ceremony as they appeared to the visitor.

There were many Indians present from Parker. They came in a cavalcade of many teams and wagons, and there were also representatives of the Vuma Indians and a goodly number of Hualapai from Kingman. Chief Sherman Bill was in charge of affairs assisted by former Chief Dick Lambert and Captain Jack Harrison.

The American flag hoisted by the Indians was a gift to the Mojaves by the local order of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in memory of the fact that the Mojaves had given generously of their boys, eleven in all, to the cause of the war.

PETER BUOL INJURED IN MINING ACCIDENT

Peter Buol of Las Vegas was dangerously injured at Pioche early Wednesday when he was caught in a partial cave-in at the mine of which he is manager, receiving injuries at first thought fatal. News of the accident was received here by telegraph from Tom McCormack and Dr. S. J. Lewis was hurriedly summoned, leaving here by automobile Wednesday afternoon for Pioche. Mrs. Buol arrived Wednesday.

According to a telegram received today from Dr. Lewis, his injuries appear to be several broken ribs, contusions of back and spine, but no indications of internal injury, which was feared.

The accident occurred immediately following a blast. Buol went into the mine to note the result of the blast, and while poking down specimens is thought to have dislodged a portion of the hanging wall left by the blasting.

In a message received at Las Vegas hospital late Friday, all fear of internal injuries is now considered groundless unless unexpected complications should arise.

R. R. Orr, brother of Judge Wm. Orr, arrived this morning from Pioche, and practically confirms the above report. Clark County Review.

LAS VEGAS LINKED IN $50,000 DIVORCE CASE

The serving of papers on George J. Mahana of Las Vegas said to be a wealthy real estate broker, as he is leaving that city for Las Vegas last week, and which made him a defendant in a $50,000 alienation of affection suit, linked Las Vegas with one of the most sensationally publicized divorce cases to be aired in the newspapers in months.

The suit was filed by Thomas H. Green, formerly of Kansas City, now a resident of Los Angeles, whose wife and four children have taken up their residence in Las Vegas. Mahana, who is an occasional visitor in Las Vegas, is charged with the alienation of Mrs. Green's affections.

DIVIDE HAS SNAKES

Many things have been said about the Tonopah Divide, but no one ever has mentioned the snakes in it, and they are entitled to publicity, as they were the original discoverers. Do Your Tires Save or Waste?

IN these days of urgent conservation the wasteful tire is as out of place as meat on Tuesdays and wheat on Wednesdays.

Equip with tires that save, in tire mileage, tire life, car life, fuel and real money.

Firestone FABRIC TIRES

CORD Tire research has brought forth notable improvements in Firestone Fabric Tire construction, particularly—

① The increased thickness of the pure gum cushion between tread and fabric adds resilience, defends the body of the tire from shocks and bruises, gives greater riding comfort and longer car life.

② More rubber between fabric layers gives greater elasticity and protection against friction.

③ A perfect and firm seating of the tire to the rim is the result of the reinforcement in bead and side wall.

④ The tough, wear-resisting tread of greater thickness adds more miles of travel. Firestone Tubes, Tube Patches and other accessories in your equipment save tires, time, troubles. No wasteful delays. Keep on going.
